WHITE SLAVE RING CRACKED IN CLEVELAND

U S Grand Jury Indicts Seven Persons As Ringleaders

CANTON IS NAMED AS HEADQUARTERS

Girls Taken to New York, Miami, Saratoga Springs and Other Places

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—A federal grand jury today indicted seven persons as ringleaders in what District Attorney Don C. Miller termed "one of the greatest white slave rings ever uncovered in this country."

Miller and FBI agents declared the alleged ring's operations centered at the Green Castle bar, 1009 S. Main st., in Canton, O., and included New York City, Saratoga Springs and Glens Falls, N. Y.; Meadville, Pa.; Miami, Fla.; Little Rock, Ark.; Cleveland and Lorain, Akron and Zanesville, O.

Naming the seven as conspirators, the indictment charged they placed "women and girls in fear of physical injury by giving or administering physical punishment for the purpose of making them continue in the practice of prostitution and debauchery and other immoral practices, to wit, illicit sexual intercourse."

"The girls would be sent to Saratoga Springs in the racing season, and to Miami in the winter season," Miller asserted. Because of "fear of bodily harm, they would give practically all the money back to the procurers. All have been given beatings at one time or another."

Indicted were:
Louis Peter orei, 51, Cleveland.
Carl Theodore Bruell, 36, Canton, O., his brother.
Frank Bruell, 29, same address, defendant on a pending second degree murder charge.

Jack Johnson, 36, of Amsterdam, N. Y., and New York City.
Eugene Cook, Negro, former operator of a Canton house now serving a life term in Marysville (Mo.) reformatory for second degree murder.

Vera Sill, alias Vera Miller, Lorain, O., indicted as operator of a house of prostitution; and Joseph Evans, about 44, Cleveland.

Miller said maximum terms of two years and $10,000 fines were possible from this charge, and separate indictments of some individuals, charging transportation and inducing, provided a maximum of five years and $5,000 fines on each count.

More was indicted on 10 of these counts, the Bruell brothers jointly on two and Carl Theodore Bruell as an individual on six more, while Johnson was charged on 16 counts.

FBI men said scores of girls were involved in the asserted operations, covering the period from Jan. 1, 1940, to July 1, 1942.

New York's Political Foes Meet

Attorney General John J. Bennett, right, and Senator James Mead, who are competing for the Democratic nomination in New York's governorship race, meet at Rochester, N. Y., where they addressed the New York labor convention. ## KNOWS JAP TONGUE, WINS JOB IN NAVY

Raymond Luthy of New Bedford, Mass., a nephew of Mrs. L. E. Walters of the Goshen road, has been inducted into the U. S. Naval Reserve as a special Navy agent because of his knowledge of the Japanese language.

Luthy, now 20 years old, spent most of his first 16 years of life in Japan where his parents were missionaries.

Because of this background, the former Ohio Wesleyan, O., university student was able to qualify among the very few who suited for this particular branch of Naval Intelligence.

During his years in Japan he not only obtained a good basic knowledge of conversational Japanese but gained an intimate acquaintance with Japanese ways of thinking and acting.

Luthy now taking a special Japanese language course at the University of Colorado, is the son of Rev. S. R. Luthy, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church at New Bedford, Mass.

COFFEY HEADS OHIO LEGION

Middletown Man Elevated At Annual Rally In Canton

(By Associated Press)
CANTON, Aug. 18.—Martin W. Coffey of Middletown heads the American Legion in Ohio for the next year.

Coffey, sales manager of the Philip Carey Co. and a participant in three major engagements in the World War, was chosen unanimously at the 24th annual state convention of the Legion today.

He had been vice-commander for the last year. In his new post he succeeds Floyd Hartpence of Westerville.

Rossiter S. Williams of Oak Hill was elected vice-commander and Charles McBride of West Salem was named treasurer.

"The Rev. C. M. Coulter of Columbus was chosen chaplain and James Suhr of Cleveland, past department commander, was named national committeeman."

"We will devote ourselves and every ounce of our power that humanity and decency may survive in a world gone mad," said Coffey in accepting the command.

"We won't let anything prevent this Legion from being a united body," Coffey is 46. He enlisted in the New York National Guard in 1916 and saw action with General John J. Pershing on the Mexican border. He went to France in 1917 with the 1st division and participated in the St. Mihiel, Argonne, Chateau Thierry engagements. Discharged in May, 1919, he became a charter member of New York City's Wilson post of the Legion.

The election was the major business at final sessions of the convention which yesterday voted, 288 to 285, to table for the war's duration a proposal to admit service men of the present war to Legion membership.

SEA BATTLES TO DETERMINE ISLAND FATE

Solomons Victory Will Go To Side Controlling Ocean Lanes

ALLIES MUST KEEP SUPPLIES MOVING

Also Must Prevent Japanese From Hauling In Reinforcements

(By Associated Press)
MELBOURNE, Aug. 18.—Big sea battles still brewing in bitterly contested waters of the Solomon Island chain may prove the turning point in the fight for the barge bases north of Australia, a special correspondent of the Melbourne Herald reported today from a South Pacific port.

He said that although Allied headquarters in the South Pacific area was issuing no statements about the progress of the Solomon operations, it was clear that naval developments in the islands are attracting the greatest attention.

Latest reports of fighting there, he continued, emphasize the cardinal truth underlying the whole future operation: that since the Americans now apparently have established satisfactory footholds in the islands, victory must go eventually to the side controlling the sea lanes.

All depends upon sea. The Allies, he said, cannot win the islands as long as Japan can fling in fresh forces; nor can they maintain their hold there unless they can keep the marine supply lanes open.

His conclusion was that the battles were likely to develop rather than diminish in magnitude once the Solomons were in Allied hands and the operation became increasingly an Allied offensive.

Japan's tenure in New Britain and Papan ports will become increasingly precarious in such a case, the correspondent said, and he predicted that the Japanese would not yield the Solomons until decisively defeated at sea in that area.

He said if the enemy did not try to overpower American naval units there, the might attempt a counter-blow in strength elsewhere in the South Pacific in the hope of drawing off Allied ships.

WAR RECORDS SET BY AUTO INDUSTRY

DETROIT, Aug. 18.—Alvan Macaulay, president of the Automotive Council for War Production, said today the automotive industry was grinding out the weapons of war at the rate of $5,000,000,000 worth a year, exceeding its peak peace-time pace by more than 20 per cent.

Assuming necessary materials are available, he added, the industry ultimately will be operating on a $12,000,000,000-a-year basis.

"This," Macaulay said, "is comparable to producing 15,000,000 passenger cars and commercial vehicles, or nearly three times the industry's annual output in its best peace-time years."

Churchill's "Siren Suit" Proves Puzzle In Moscow

It's One of Two Riddles He Left; the Other—"What Did He Say?" Is Still Unanswered

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—The two chief riddles remaining after Prime Minister Winston Churchill's visit—so far as newsmen are concerned—are, what did he say to Joseph Stalin about a second front, and why did he wear a flyer suit to the state dinner in the Kremlin?

For obvious reasons details of the conversation between the statesmen are kept secret, but to date no one here has figured out the blue, purple and white under which the prime minister wore no suit.

"But that's Churchill!" in uting correspondents were told. "He's individual, you know."

SUB CAMPAIGN DRIFTS SOUTH

British Merchant Vessel Sunk Off South American Coast

(By Associated Press)
Further indications that the bulk of Axis submarines had shifted their attack from the Caribbean to the easier hunting grounds off unprotected South America came today as the navy announced another sinking in that area—a British merchant vessel which went down off the northern coast of South America early in July.

The announcement came in the wake of Brazil's statement that five of its coast ships—including two carrying troops—had gone down off its shores in the last three days.

There have been comparatively few announcements of sinkings by the navy in past weeks and relatively few occurred in the North Atlantic and Caribbean recently.

The five Brazilian ships, carrying a total of 365 crew members and a reported 60 passengers, brought Brazil's total war loss to 16 ships sunk and three damaged.

World War Is Now At Decisive Stage Soviet Emphasizes

Red Publications Call For Action Now, "With All Power and Energy", With Hitler Vulnerable In Other Parts of Europe

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—Russian publications suggested today that United Nations carry the war to Germany "with all their power and energy" and devoted front pages to the Kremlin conversations of Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Photographs portrayed the British and Russian war leaders beaming at each other—Stalin in his usual khaki tunic and Churchill wearing a blue flying suit.

The government newspaper Izvestia italicized the phrase "with all their power and energy" from the communiqué concerning the talks and asserted this peak effort was awaited by the great public masses of Britain and the United States.

Izvestia asserted that Adolf Hitler "already has laid bare other vulnerable parts of his front in Europe in order to obtain success on the Soviet-German front."

Izvestia said this had brought the war to the "decisive phase" with the Germans throwing their full might into an attempt to wrest victory before the United Nations' growing resources could tip the scales.

"The Red army alone continues the heavy struggle," the newspaper went on, "and even under the most unfavorable circumstances inflicts tremendous losses upon the Nazis and breaks down the power of the German war machine."

"For more than a year the Red army has drawn upon itself all the power of the Hitlerite military forces, giving its Allies the possibility to accumulate and prepare all the resources necessary to crush the enemy."

PART SCORE

The extreme difficulty of scoring a war that ranges over thousands of miles of land and water has prevented all but a few clear pictures. When Great Britain broke Germany's bid for control of the air between early autumn in 1940 and the autumn of 1941, it could be estimated with reasonable accuracy that Germany had lost upward of 16,000 planes to Britain's 3,000. That was a clear picture leaving no doubt of Germany's reason for abandoning what had proved to be an exorbitantly costly attempt to win an aerial battle.

Figures just released by Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold comprise a comparably clear picture of aerial warfare between the United States and Japan. Without including enemy planes destroyed on the ground, Gen. Arnold says that 190 Japanese units were shot down, with a loss of 104 American planes. At the same time it is announced officially that the sensational record of the "Flying Tigers," American volunteer group fighting for China, was 218 Japanese planes against 84 American losses before the force was disbanded.

There is no tendency any more to under-rate the Japanese as air fighters, but the statistics indicate that whenever American airmen can meet them on even terms the advantage lies on the American side.

FOR THE OH SHUCKS DEPT.

It fails to be plain out in this part of the country why President Roosevelt, presumably the world's busiest man, found time to meddle in New York state politics during the recent primary. Now that reports are hinting that the upshot of the meddling is going to be a rebuke to Mr. Roosevelt and a boost in the political prestige of James A. Farley it isn't plain why that's important either.

Outside New York state and the ingrained political circles where nothing else is important, no one gives a whoop who gets the Democratic nomination for governor of New York. It has no possible bearing on anything connected with the only important thing before the country right now—the better conduct of the war effort. The people as a whole are not interested in the political manipulations going on in any one state.

Consequently, the President's prestige isn't going to suffer a bit west of the Hudson river—unless it continues to appear that he is so interested in fighting with James A. Farley that he is stealing time from fighting with Germany, Japan and Italy to pursue his political hobby. In that event, even Mr. Roosevelt's stranglehold on popularity would be loosened.

THERE IS A LIMIT

Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres has added to growing consciousness of the nation's limitations in raw materials a warning that if and when the confusion in materials has been ironed out there still will be a limit imposed by transportation. The railroads, he concedes, have been doing a splendid job, but they cannot continue to transport more freight indefinitely, because their own possibilities of expansion are about exhausted.

Ultimately, in other words, the production of war material in the United States must level off. While that is obvious, it nevertheless is true that it has not been recognized. Much public talking has proceeded on the assumption that United States production was what some spokesmen for government or industry said it was. In the final analysis, production is what transportation, materials and manpower permit it to be.

There is no better reason for saying the United States can do anything it needs to do in production than there is for saying that Great Britain, Germany, Japan, Italy, China and Russia can do anything they need to do—and their limitations are well known. This is a great country. It has more productive capacity than any other, but eventually it can reach the limit of its capacity, however great that may be.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, August 19

ALTHOUGH the energies and faculties are under high stimuli for some very definite accomplishment on this day, yet there are signs of perplexity, vexation, frustration and perhaps turbulence and commotion as well. This might be due to a high-tensioned state of nerves, mind and physical forces, which need restraint and proper direction as well as well-organized plans and techniques. Undercover help might be of benefit.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and exciting year with all things accelerated to high pitch, although not always in the direction of desired objectives. There may be turbulence, irritations and defeats or impediments, with elders, superiors and those in high places not to be counted upon for cooperation. Self-sufficiency may be advisable or the indirect, secret or strategic collaboration of influential political or corporation friends.

A child born on this day should have many excellent talents and much constructive ability, ingenuity and enterprise.

Politics is called a confession, but it is certainly full of trades.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Wide World Science Editor

NEW YORK — The fish, the whales and the hogs don't know it, but they are indirectly responsible for a new saving of countless thousands of hours in making American planes, tanks, ships and guns.

The huge time saving comes from a new cutting oil, the lubricant used to cool metal while high speed tools smooth, slice and drill the war parts. The oil is a synthetic and is announced by the Gulf Oil corporation.

The secrets of this oil came mostly from fish, whales and hogs. Fish oil until recently was the main cutting oil in industry, and Gulf laboratory scientists at Pittsburgh analyzed this and the other oils for the peculiar properties needed.

Four main qualities were found, and then synthesized, as fish and whale oils are war scarcities and hogs are needed for bacon. First was penetration. The oil has to go where water and other thin liquids would never leak a drop in a week.

Second is cooling. The oil is cool because it has qualities for absorbing heat, and also because of the quick way it gets close to metal, due to penetration and to wetting ability.

This wetting ability is another of the special qualities, and means rapid spread. The spreading of water is the classical example of wetting ability. In that respect this oil is wetter than water.

The fourth big quality is film strength. This means that a film of liquid oil, thinner than tissue paper, becomes, when under pressure, almost as tough as steel.

Spectacular demonstrations include—a steel surface, covered with an old type cooling oil across which a machine tool cutting point was moving at 100 feet a minute. A plume of smoke rose from the tool's point.

The new oil was substituted, the cutting speeded to 300 feet a minute and there was no sign of smoke.

The life of some aluminum-working tools was extended by the oil from 3 hours to 11 between grinds. The oil makes it possible to machine aluminum so smoothly that in many cases no polishing is needed, thus eliminating one operation. Several aluminum-working shops have set new production records attributed to the new oil.

MANY PLANTS CAUSE SKIN ERUPTIONS

Volatile Oils Chief Cause of Disturbance

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A GOOD many plants cause skin eruptions. Most of them are wild plants, though some are cultivated in the garden or in the house.

All of them cause a skin eruption by reason of the volatile oils that are produced either on the leaf or in the flower. The form of the eruption varies in appearance although most of the eruptions produce blisters.

The blister appears first at the place of contact with the plant, but the contents of the blister contain the oil so that auto-inoculation is a regular feature and the vaccination may start out with an eruption on his hands which is conveyed to the ears and face.

The onset is very sudden. You will know you have handled poison ivy within a few hours at the most. Nobody ever gets habituated to poison ivy. No immunity is created. On the contrary, one attack is likely to sensitize you to another. This statement is subject to some modification because the vaccines that have been produced do undoubtedly do some good, and their action must depend on immunity.

The guilty wild plants in North America are poison ivy, poison oak, poison sumac, dogwood and ash. They are all vines or shrubs and particularly favor shady spots. The house plant that is the guilty one is the primrose. I once had a patient who had a skin eruption on the left hand. We asked each other over and over again why the eruption should be there, and there only I finally told her to keep a diary, putting down every minutest action she performed in each 24 hours for a week. She came back in two days and said, "Of course, the primroses." She watered her primroses every morning and held the watering pot in her right hand while she lifted the leaves of the plant with the left.

The treatment of poison ivy and other forms of plant dermatitis is principally symptomatic and consists in the application of lotions which lessen the pain and itching. The best of all is old-fashioned calamine lotion with just enough phenol or menthol in it to relieve the stinging and burning.

I have talked to a number of people who have taken the vaccines. About one out of four gets complete relief. The vaccine one takes by mouth, for some reason, physiologists cannot explain, seems to act better than the others.

One woman I know could never accompany her husband on a camping trip because of poison ivy. Even if she got close to a group of the plants, she would acquire an eruption. She was persuaded to take some of the rhus extract by mouth and has been completely free ever since.

The list of plants that will cause some irritation of the skin, not of any seriousness or duration, is legion beginning with lady slipper and poinsettia and including many of the mushrooms and tomato leaves, skunk cabbage, smartweed and parsnip. As with all other forms of this dermatitis, only susceptible individuals get it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

P. W.: I have had my gall-bladder X-rayed and was told I had gallstones. Would excessive gas in the stomach be caused from this condition? Is surgery the only cure, and do the stones gather again?

Answer: Gas on the stomach is one of the prominent symptoms of gallstone disease. Surgery is the only real cure. Stones re-form in only about one out of 1000 cases. Medical treatment with a mild diet and a small dose of salts in the morning on arising, however, allows many patients long years of a lifetime of comfort.

RANDOM HARVEST by JAMES HILTON

Author of
"GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS"
And "LOST HORIZON"

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

No doubt it was for somewhat reasons that Nicholas became a success with the play of Vincent Crumley—of course, that Nicholas aspired to do that, but the really became almost everything—advance press agent, scene manager, bookkeeper, copy writer, and up of scenes that were not too long or too short or not too successful, general handy man, odd-jobber, negotiator, public representative and private adviser, was hurriedly, always pleasant, never effusive; always reserved, never disdainful. In short, a perfect gentleman.

There certainly could not have been devised a more likely cure for that remained of his mental and experimental difficulties. The constant meetings with strangers, the handling of new problems, the traveling from one town to another, the settlement in new places—all combined to break down the pathological part of his mind; yet shyness still remained, and with it there developed an almost ascetic enjoyment of certain forms—of rainy hours on railway platforms, with nothing to do but watch the maneuvers of shunting in goods yard, or reading the numbers on houses in a strange town at night, knowing that one of them hid a passing and unimportant destiny.

His Salute the Flag work also brought him into contact with average citizens of these many provincial towns—the barber, the tobacconist, the stationmaster, the people who were given a couple of free seats in exchange for playing exhibited in their windows, the person who sometimes reached a sermon attacking the new could get it, sometimes the person who came himself with his children, but most often a person who neither attacked nor patronized, but just passed by the street with a preoccupied expression, recognizing the smartly dressed strangers as "theatricals" and therefore in some vaguely opposite to no longer warring camp.

One of these clerics commented at the Church and the theater are now potential allies, being both sufferers from the same public indifference—"Your leaky roof and leaky roof are the price paid for the new cathedrals of Mammon." Whereupon he pointed across the street to a new cinema advertising a film which, so it turned out after further conversation, they had both of them recently enjoyed.

Smith saw a good deal of Paula during these busy days and even busier evenings, but somehow their relationship did not seem to progress to anything warmer or more intimate. Outwardly he became just as friendly with a few of the others, especially with young Ponderby, the tweedy youth, whom he grew to like. Ponderby was not much of an actor; his job depended entirely on the possession of astoundingly conventional good looks. In Salute the Flag, all he had was a couple of lines; he rushed into the general's headquarters with the cry, "The enemy are attacking! Give the order to advance!"—whereupon, the general, who was a spy in disguise, was supposed to look sinister while Ponderby backed toward the door, delivering his second line as an exit, "Or if you don't, sir, then, by heaven, I will myself!" This was designed to bring a round of applause, and by careful attention to timing and movement, Ponderby usually got one.

Of course, Margesson, who managed the company, was very strict about everyone getting his "round." There was a technique about such things: you stood in the doorway, hand on the doorknob, staring hard and throwing your voice up to the farthest corner of the gallery—if the "round" didn't come, or came too sluggishly, you rattled the doorknob and repeated the final line with greater emphasis.

One Saturday, in the town of Fulverton, Ponderby spent the morning drinking in an attempt to destroy the effect of too much drinking the night before; by mid-afternoon, when he and Smith happened to be alone together in the lodginghouse, it was clear that he could perform in the evening only with extreme hazard, if at all. He had done this sort of thing several times before, so Smith neither believed nor disbelieved a story of bad news from home; but he felt some sympathy for the youth, especially as he knew this latest offense would probably cost him his job. Ponderby knew this too, and as the hour approached for the first show he took quantities of aspirin and pick-me-ups, all of which only added to his symptoms of physical illness. By six o'clock he was begging Smith to take over his part.

It was the only way by which Margesson might be placated; after all, provided the show wasn't interfered with, Margesson might not care—the part was so small, and the clothes would fit too. Smith was reluctant to agree; he didn't feel he would be any good as an actor, even in the least possible part; but then Ponderby wasn't good either, so that argument didn't carry far. And it was undoubtedly true that the part, though small, was structurally important, so that a last-minute cut would be extremely awkward; and Saturday, also, was the best night for Fulverton audiences. Everything forced him to an eventual consent, subject to Margesson's approval, but he still did not like the idea.

He went to the theater earlier than usual and found Margesson in the midst of some trouble with scene shifters; when he said that Ponderby was ill and he himself could take his part, Margesson merely answered in a hurry: "Had too much to drink again, I suppose.... All right then—mind you get your round."

Smith did not have any chance to tell Paula about it, but the news that he was taking Ponderby's part caused little surprise, he was such a handy man, and the part was only two lines—there seemed nothing very remarkable about the arrangement.

He was a trifle nervous as he changed into the uniform of a British second lieutenant, but not more so than he often was at times when people would never guess it. Quite a natural nervousness too; he knew that many actors and public speakers were always like that, it was really abnormal not to be. Something in the look of himself in the mirror struck a half-heard chord in his submerged memory; he did not come on till the middle of the last act, so he had time to smoke cigarettes and try to catch the chord again, but that was stupid; the more he stared at himself in the mirror, the less he could remember anything at all. Then suddenly, with a frightened stab of panic, he asked himself what Ponderby's lines were—he had never thought of memorizing them, because he assumed he knew them so well; he practically knew the whole show by heart, for that matter—they all did. But now, when he sought to speak them to himself, what the devil were they?

The shaky Smith tried to visualize that part of the play: the general at his desk, twirling his mustaches and muttering "Hein" under his breath—that was to show he was a spy in disguise; then Ponderby rushing in—"The enemy are attacking! Give the order to advance!" Now why should a second lieutenant tell a general what to do? Never mind—that was part of the play. Anyhow, Ponderby backed across the stage—not too quick, though—gave the general time to give some more twirls and look suspicious; then on the exit—"Or if you don't, sir, then, by heaven, I will myself!" That was it; and wait for the round.... He said it all over again to himself: "The enemy are attacking—give the order to advance—or, if you don't, sir, then, by heaven, I will myself!" Twenty words—the smallest part in the show. Saying them over a third time, he heard the call boy's "Ready, sir."

He went out into the wings, standing where he could see the general at his desk. The general (little Tommy made up with comic mustaches) was rising drawers with a terrific amount of noise (exactly as a spy wouldn't do), glancing through piles of paper in search of a stolen treaty—even if it were there, he was going through them so fast that he couldn't possibly find it; but that again had to be done or nobody would get the point—anything else was what Margesson called "this dem-silly West End pansy-stuff where you come on the stage and light a cigarette with your back to the audience and call it acting." Smith stood there, waiting for the cue, which was the word "Hein." He felt a little queer; he was going to do something he had never done before; it would be awful if he did it badly, or didn't get his round; the only comfort was the Ponderby did it pretty badly himself.

Suddenly he heard the general say "Hein." It electrified him, like a word spoken inside his own head; he felt his feet as items of luggage that didn't belong to him as he marshaled them for the forward rush. His first impression was of a dazzling brilliance, and of the curious fact that there was no audience at all; then, as he stared to verify this, faces swam out of the darkness towards him; row upon row, stalls, boxes, circle, balcony, all were returning his stare from tens of thousands of eyes—quizzically, he thought at first, as if they were aware that this was the supreme moment of all drama and were anxious to compare his performance with previous ones by Irving, Coquelin, and Forbes-Robertson.... but then, with a flash of uneasiness, he saw malevolence too, as if they hated him for not being Irving, even for not being Ponderby.

He had to conquer this uneasiness or it would conquer him, just as he knew he had to rush up to the general's desk and say "The enemy are attacking—give the order to advance!" He saw Tommy eyeing him watchfully—that was part of the play, but Tommy's eye held an extra watchfulness, as if he were hating him too—for not being somebody else.

And then a very dreadful thing happened; he began to stammer, it was the old, the tragic stammer—the one that made his face twist and twitch as if he were in a dentist's chair; he stood there, facing the general, facing the audience, facing doom, it almost seemed, and all he could do was wrestle with the words until they came, one after the other, each one fighting to the last.

The audience began to titter, and when he crossed the stage to struggle with the rest of the words they were already yelling with laughter. "Or if y-y-you d-d-don't, sir, then, b-b-b-y h-h-heaven, I w-w-will m-m-m-myself!" The laughter rose to a shriek as he still stood there, waiting, trembling, with lips curving grotesquely and hand fumbling at the door.

When he finally rattled at the knob till it broke off and rolled across the stage into the footlights, the whole house burst into hilarious shouting while the lads in the gallery stamped their feet and whistled through two fingers for over a minute.

Smith got his "round" all right.

He left the stage in a daze, somehow finding himself in the wings, passing faces he knew without a word, yet noting for agonized recollection later that some looked anxious, others puzzled, a few were actually convulsed with laughter. Alone at last in the dressing room he closed the door, locked it, and for several minutes fought down an old resurrected inferno of fear,

MORE ACTION for the War Effort!

The amount of time all of us use our telephones has a direct bearing upon the war effort. Lines are overcrowded with important war messages. Your call may prevent completion of a call that means more and faster action for victory. We cannot build more lines because of material shortages, so all of us must co-operate to speed America's No. 1 job by sharing our existing service. You can help by following these suggestions:

- 1 Do not make calls to key cities outside of Ohio unless they are absolutely necessary.
- 2 Plan what you want to say so the call will be brief.
- 3 Whenever possible, call by number.
- 4 Do not visit on the telephone. Make your local calls as brief as possible, and make sure that all members of your family, especially the youngsters, follow this suggestion.

MEAT CEILINGS BY ZONES SUGGESTED

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Adjustment of meat price ceilings by zones, in order to relieve shortages in areas where the ceilings are low, is under consideration by the Office of Price Administration, a spokesman said today.

Some method of "leveling" prices would be OPA's aim, to correct the present maldistribution and assure that packers deliver a normal proportion of their output to every area instead of favoring those cities where ceilings are highest.

The spokesman said the proposed zone adjustment might mean a lowering of prices in some areas as well as a ceiling increase in others. Prices now vary as much as three cents a pound from city to city.

New England has been mentioned as a low-ceiling area, while New York City, with higher prices, has so far had little difficulty.

For areas in the lower price brackets a new pricing formula might be offered in lieu of the existing ceilings under which beef and veal packers' prices are frozen at March levels, pork at February levels and lamb at July quotations.

The suggestion made yesterday in Chicago by Roy P. Hendrickson, head of the Agricultural Marketing Administration, that "meatless days" or meat rationing might be necessary in view of the present shortage, brought from OPA rationing spokesmen their familiar answer: "We have no plans to ration meat and cannot do so unless ordered by WPB."

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—One more credit mark has been scored up to the Marines. When Pvt. B. A. Loud, U. S. M. C., joined the Marines he stood 5 foot 3 inches, weighed only 110 pounds and was dubbed the "midget Marine." Corp. Nick Foster, recruit depot field cook, decided to do something about it. He fed him double rations and now has him up to 122 pounds. "It will be worse for the Japs," he said.

BERKELEY, Calif.—Inflation is the time to get out of debt and not into it, according to Dr. Harry R. Wellman, director of the Giannini Foundation of Agricultural Economics at the University of California. "Inflation debts may be hard to pay off with post-war profits," he warned farmers.

At the beginning of 1941 there were 44,333 locomotives in the United States, of which 42,410 were operated by steam, 967 by oil, 900 by electricity and 56 by gasoline.

How to Anger the Public

If you want to anger the public, just take a picture of your three-year-old son dangling over a mountain cliff—and let it be published in a national magazine. That's what Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair of Chattanooga, Tenn., did some months ago—and the indignant letters are still pouring in. In self-defense, the Sinclairs have allowed their hoax—for that is what it was—be exposed by another magazine, Tab, a new weekly, in this picture. The original photo was cropped at the point indicated by the dotted lines, so the soldiers who were holding a blanket beneath young David were not shown.

Navy's Pre-Flight Training Program Is World's Toughest

(By Associated Press)

IOWA CITY, Ia.—The navy's evolutionary pre-flight training program is in full swing at its four scattered bases, building up future pilots in a mental and physical toughening process for the service's expanding air arm.

And at the University of Iowa former Ohio men are playing an important role. Ohio ranks next to Minnesota providing officers for the "Midwest's Annapolis of the air."

Heading the Buckeye contingent is Lieut. Comdr. Larry Snyder, until recently head track coach at Ohio State university. Now Snyder is assistant to Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman, who heads the athletic program.

Former Ohio State athletic figures and sports stars from other Ohio schools fill the ranks of the athletic staff which works under Snyder and Bierman.

Since its opening May 28, more than a thousand recruits have arrived at the Iowa base, with another thousand yet to come. Most of them are from colleges although the navy has made the recruiting of non-college men available.

Training Period Tough
The cadets go through a three-month training period described as the "toughest the world has ever seen."

Most of the program is designed for physical fitness although class work takes up two hours of the cadet's time daily.

Cadets get every kind of sport training, imaginable, from football and basketball to ju-jitsu, hand-to-hand and rough-and-tumble fighting. They get military drill, long hikes, obstacle course training and manual labor.

The day is so compact cadets must sometimes run to make classes.

The statement by a navy official that the cadets "are going to work harder, longer and with greater intensity than any group of fighting men ever before assembled in the world" has certainly been proven accurate.

Every cadet is on the jump from reveille at 5:45 a. m. till taps at 9:30 p. m. They get their only liberty on Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings. New recruits are not permitted to leave the base on liberty until they have been at the school or three weeks.

Lieut. Ed Bliekle, former Ohio State coach, is a battalion commander at the school and is also assisting in basketball. A pair of Buckeye stars—Jim Langhurst and Dick Fisher—are now ensigns at the school. Langhurst, by the way, is a regular outfielder on the baseball team.

Soccer is vital in the program and its two head men—Lieut. Charles Erdman and Ensign Bruce Bennett—are former Oberlin college stars.

Sports Program Extensive
A further idea of the sports program at the school may be envisioned by listing the other men stationed here.

They include: Lieut. George Woerlein, track coach, formerly at Xenia Soldiers and Sailors Orphan home; Lieut. Sam Selby of Otterbein college who heads the competitive sports program; Lieut. Trevor Rees and Ensign Fred Helsler, who were assistants under Coach Paul Brown at Ohio State, Lieut.

Bud Houghton who succeeded Brown at Massillon High school, Ensign Charles Team, football mentor; Lieut. Mel Cox, former Buckeye swimmer, and Ensign Arthur Kirkland of Ohio university, who is a wrestling instructor.

Boxing instruction is given by Lieutenants Fred Ongly and Ed Adams, both Akron men, while Dr. H. P. Westell of Columbus, former physician of the Ohio industrial commission, is on the staff and medical instructor.

These men are a sample of the calibre and variety of the pre-flight school. Coaches from all parts of the country are on the staff and former college sports "stars" are plentiful.

The navy hasn't held back a thing to give these cadets the best instructors possible for a program that may turn former physical training standards topsy-turvy.

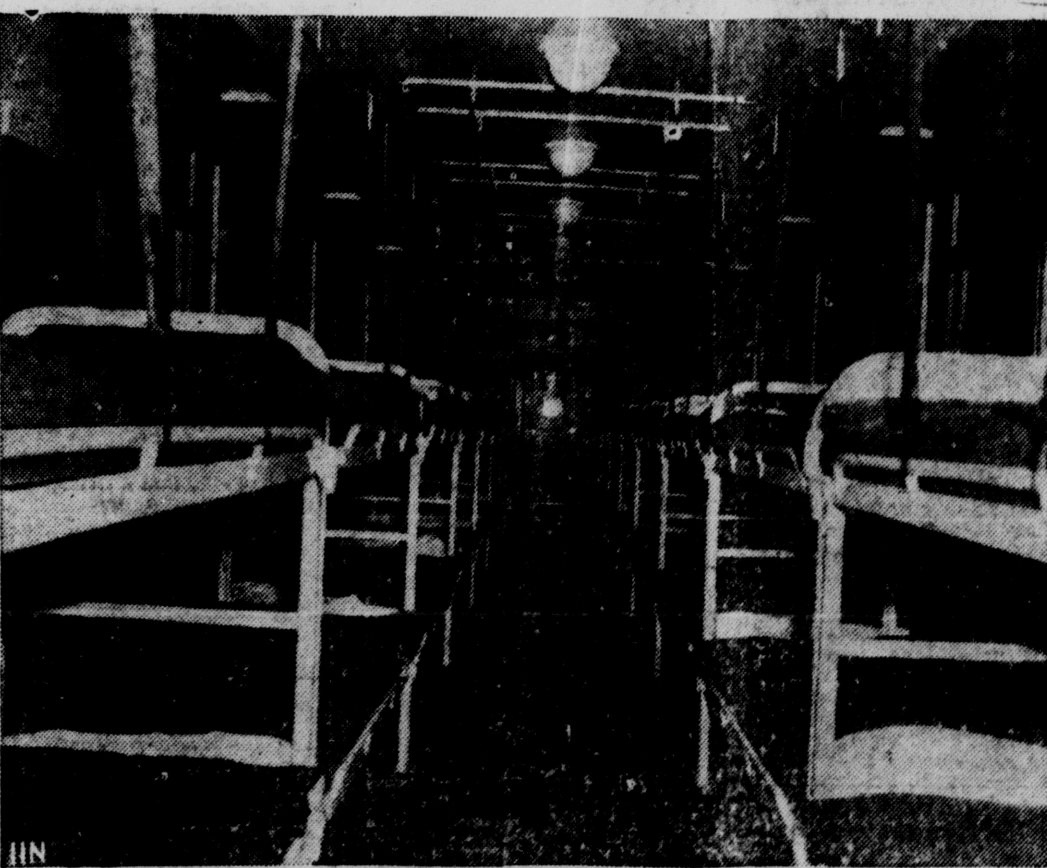

Some 200 coaches, including many from Ohio, are at the school now studying the navy's techniques in putting these future pilots through the stiffest training period in military or naval history.

George Washington Gives Blood

Interior of New United States Hospital Train

BERLIN IS BUSIEST MAN ON BROADWAY

Famed Composer Produces Musical Hit For Army Relief

BY MARK BARRON
NEW YORK—Probably the busiest man on Broadway is Irving Berlin, the song writer who has banged out scores of hits on his battered piano from the time he came up first with his triumphant "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Today his interests consist of:
1. Author and producer of the new Broadway musical hit, "This Is The Army," the all-soldier show being presented by Uncle Sam for the army emergency relief fund.

2. Author and composer of the new Paramount picture, "Holiday Inn," which stars Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire singing Berlin's new hit score which has such of his songs as "White Christmas" and "Be Careful, It's My Heart."

3. President of the Irving Berlin music publishers. (He doesn't have to worry about this branch of his enterprises, for if his catalogue needs a number he simply composes one himself.)

4. Singer and actor in his production of "This Is The Army" in which he appears in the uniform he wore as a sergeant in 1918 singing "Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning" just as he did in his army show, "Yip, Yop, Yaphank," in the first World War.

When his daughter, 15-year-old Mary Ellen, heard him sing this at the opening night of "This Is The Army" she rushed backstage, threw her arms around him, and said, "Daddy, you really ought to go on the stage."

Berlin's office, just across the street from Broadway's famous Winter Garden theater, is about half business office and half Tin Pan Alley studio.

Always On the Move
Here he is constantly moving from his business desk over to his piano to compose or sing a song, and so closely does he combine the two phases of his activities that frequently he will absent mindingly begin carrying on his business conversations in a music writer's perfect lyric form, rhyming his conversation as if he were writing a song.

Aside from the Broadway production of "This Is The Army," which is bringing in about $45,000 a week into the army relief fund, the movie rights have been sold to Warner Brothers for a first installment of $250,000, with the army fund to share in subsequent profits. The film, like the stage show, also will have an all soldier cast.

Berlin, just as he did with his "Follicay Inn," also will go to Hollywood to supervise the transfer of the show to the screen.

Berlin has another absent minded habit when he is at his ancient piano playing and singing his songs. He will suddenly break into

Gable Learns About Army Life

Among the first things Clark Gable learned when he reported at the Miami army air corps station was how a soldier keeps his kit and cot in shape. Here, Gable, left, receives his instructions from Officer Candidate V. E. Clark. Looking on at right is Gable's intimate friend and former cameraman, Andrew McIntyre, who enlisted with Gable.

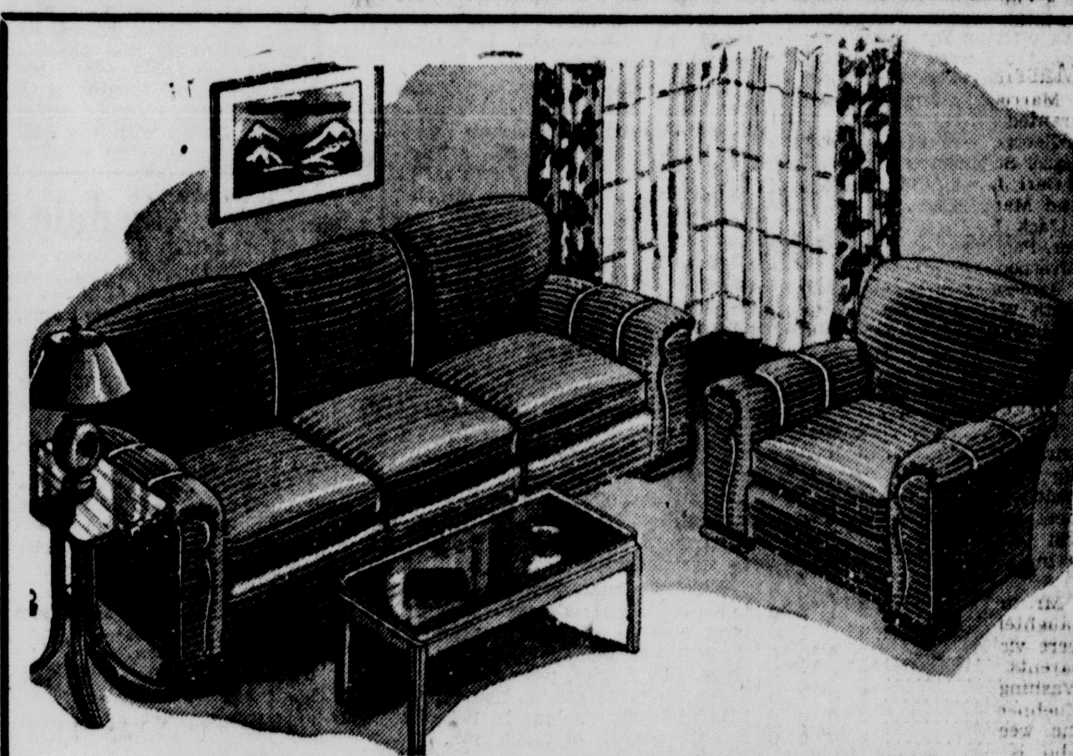

the middle of singing one of his lyrics and apologetically say, "You must excuse me. You realize I'm not a Crosby or an Astaire."

He fails to add that he is "Busy Berlin."

News Pads Class A Lead With 4-3 Win Over Salem China

HALL'S HOME RUN GIVES NEWS SIXTH VICTORY OF ROUND

Undermanned Recs Beaten By Furnace; Fred Cope Paces Attack

Chalking up their sixth win in seven starts, the Salem News padded their Class A lead by snapping the Salem Chinas' winning streak at four, 5-4, at Centennial park last night on the strength of "Red" Hall's homer.

Bill Pauline, on the mound for the league leaders, allowed only three hits but issued many free passes. He gave up no hits in the last five frames as the Newsies worked hard to break a 3-3 deadlock. Frank Fowler pitched for the Chinas and doled out seven hits to the Newsies. Untimely errors kept him on the spot throughout the game.

Chinas Score First

The Chinas scored in the first without the aid of a hit as Pauline suffered a streak of wildness but the pace setters came back with a brace of runs to take the lead. Singles by Dan Kenst, Bill Schaeffer and Pete McCartney plus a walk or two gave the Pottery men two more runs in the second but the News tied the count again in the last of the third.

"Red" Hall advanced to the plate in the fifth and drove what should have been a line single to center. The China flycatcher, Johnny McCoy, came in to field the ball but never got near it as the ball took a crazy hop and bounded on past him. The speedy Hall needed no urging to circle the sacks and touch the plate for what proved to be the winning run.

Hall and Pim Jackson collected two hits apiece to lead the assault against Fowler while no batter got to Pauline for more than one hit.

Furnace Trips Recs

The Recreation put up a game battle against the Electric Furnace as they took the field with only eight men but hits dropping in where nobody was stationed proved the downfall of the first round champs, 6-2.

Herb Brown was touched by the Furnaces for 10 safe blows, several of which dropped in unpatrolled territory, while Courtney allowed the Recs to win.

The shopmen scored their runs in clusters of three in the second and fifth innings while the Recs plated single tallies in the third, sixth and seventh. All of the Furnaces' runs were earned as the eight-man team turned in an errorless performance.

Fred Cope enjoyed his biggest night of the season as he combed Browns' offering for three straight safeties. Jim Burrell and Burt Sutter gave some valuable support to the Furnace cause with two hits each.

Joe Kelley, one of the league's outstanding hitters, and Herb McArthur poured out a brace of hits to face the Recs.

CAPOZZUTI NAMED E. LIVERPOOL COACH

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 18.—A. Gerald Capozzuti, coach at Bessemer (Pa.) High school for eight years, has been appointed to the East Liverpool coachship vacated by Joe Morbito, the board of education announced today.

Morbato resigned to become assistant coach at Youngstown college. Capozzuti, 30, is a graduate of Slippery Rock (Pa.) State Teachers college, where he captained the varsity in 1932 and was a star center.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The western division of the army all-star football squad is burned up over hints from the eastern camp that the other bunch is only a "second string" outfit. Word from Camp Cooke is: "We play the toughest schedule — five games, starting with the Washington Redskins, to the east's three; we have less time to prepare; we travel the width of the country, which means the players get little between-game practice; we will draw more people and have bigger gate receipts. In fact, there won't be any competition. And if Col. Bob Neyland's boys want to challenge that, Johnny Kimbrough, Don Scott, Ralph Kercheval and Co. are perfectly willing to prove it on the field."

One-Minute Sports Page

Port Worth is raising a "pennant fund" to reward Rogers Hornsby's Cats for staying up in the Texas league race. And the fans are annoyed because the Rajah isn't eligible for the "most valuable" award. Augie Nordone sprained his wrist during the first round of the Rochester Open golf tourney last week but turned in a 71, playing the last three holes with one hand only four over par.

Today's Guest Star

Sandy McDonald, Seattle Times: "Emil Sick is figuring on augmenting his coffee, hot dogs and peanuts menu with a few more substantial items of food when the 6 o'clock baseball games roll around August 20. Who knows, soon one may be able to call one of the popcorn hustlers and say: 'Gimme a hot rose biff sandwich, cuppa coffee and tell Gyselman to play this guy for a bun!'"

NELSON FAVORITE IN OHIO TOURNEY

Toledo Star Battles 75 Buckeye Golfers For State Crown

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—Byron Nelson of Toledo Inverness, winner of every big-time golf championship on the calendar, faced a field of about 75 of the state's professional and amateur sharpshooters today as he sought his third straight Ohio Open title.

The two-day 72-hole medal play test over the Mayfield country club course—one of the most exacting layouts in the country—attracted four former title holders and a flock of the other buckeye talent.

Arranged against the Toledo star were such figures as Billy Burke of Cleveland, winner of the 1931 National open; Phil Perkins of Cleveland, winner of the 1937 state open and former holder of the British amateur crown; Lloyd Gullickson of the Congress Lake course at Canton, 1935 winner who recently fired a 62 over his home layout, and Al Espinosa of Akron Portage, three-time winner of the state title and who once tied Bobby Jones for the National open.

Burke paced the field through yesterday's practice round with a 68, two under par.

About 15 amateurs were in the field—although no simon-pure has been able to win the tournament since it has launched back in the teens. Bob Kepler, pro at the Ohio State university course, tied for the title while an amateur in 1935, but lost the playoff of Gullickson.

Boudreau Rides Inside Track In Manager-of-the-Year Race

NEW YORK—The boy who was sent on a man's job did it. Lou Boudreau, the kid shortstop whose appointment as Cleveland manager started baseball last winter, has made a whopping success. He got the Indians hustling, had them out front for a few furlongs and has had them in the first division all the way. His reward is a new three-year contract as pilot.

This corner thinks the 24-year-old infielder should be considered for manager-of-the-year honors. And, in some respects, he has the edge over the other two contenders, Mel Ott of the Giants and Luke Sewell of the Browns.

Sewell has taken a habitually second division club and boosted it to fourth place. If some of the St. Louis stars of other years were having good seasons now, the Browns might be even further up the ladder. But Sewell is a long-time veteran, who has picked up experience in both major leagues. While Boudreau hardly had earned his spurs as a sophomore shortstop before he was entrusted with the manager's portfolio.

Ott certainly has done the best job in the National league. Most of the experts figured the Giants to finish well down in the second division but, at this writing, Mel has them in third position. They seem a cinch for the second division and may nose the Reds out for third. But Ott, like Sewell, is a veteran. He has been around long years and has acquired the experience a manager needs.

When Boudreau took over, he found baseball's top pitcher, Bob Feller, and a crack first baseman, Hal Trosky, gone. There is a possibility that, given Feller this year, Boudreau might have the Indians challenging the Yanks right down

LOU BOUDREAU

Mel Ott

Twice this year the veteran outfielder has spoiled no-hitters. Early in the season he robbed Bobo Newsom in Bobo's first appearance against the Tigers, who had sold him to Washington. Bobo was bearing down to shut out his former mates but Cramer nicked him.

The other day Al Milnar of Cleveland had a no hit game almost in his grasp. He had retired batters without a safety for eight and two-thirds innings. But, with two down in the ninth, Cramer strode to the plate and banged one.

This corner is herewith deserting the ship. For long months he has strung along with Cincinnati, hoping the Reds would find some hitting to go with their pitching and would overhaul the Dodgers. But now it's too late. The Dodgers have too much of a lead to be overtaken. So, folks, go ahead. Let me hear those "I-told-you-so's."

What is the record number of putts for a round of golf? Eddie Guerin of Detroit recently had 22 putts for 18 holes, which is some fancy putting, but still far from a record. Another Detroitier came up with a round that listed only 17 putts. He one-putted 17 greens and holed out one approach shot.

If you can beat that, let us hear about it.

BUCS INVADE CINCY FOR SET WITH REDS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18.—A three-game series opening here tonight will just about decide the Pittsburgh Pirates' chances to finish in the first division.

For the Cincinnati Reds, the series could wreck a rapidly slipping chance at third-place money. St. Louis trimmed the Reds yesterday 5-2.

Pittsburgh is overdue for a good showing against the Reds who've beaten the Bucs nine of 11 games since dropping two to them in the series which opened the season. Boston and Philadelphia are the only other clubs over which Cincinnati still holds an edge.

Bucky Walters was slated to make a sixth try for his 13th victory tonight against Bob Klinger.

Old Ray Starr was sent to his tenth defeat yesterday by the Cards. The Reds left 11 runners stranded and only in the third scored on Krist, using his two walks, two infield singles and Frank McCormick's double.

The Cards scored twice on Starr in the first round and clinched the triumph with two more in the seventh with two out when Martin Marion doubled, Johnny Hopp tripled, and Krist singled.

CLARK'S RAMS SET FOR STEELER GAME

"Pros" Meet In Pottery City Friday; Local Interest High

Even though the advance ticket sale has been excellent, hundreds of the more choice seats are still available for the Cleveland Rams-Pittsburgh Steelers football game in East Liverpool Friday night, according to Charles S. Boern, general chairman of the Wellsville-East Liverpool civilian defense councils, co-sponsors of the big sporting event.

The Ohio Valley has always been a hot bed for rabid high school football fans and the staging of this preseason game is being heralded far and wide as it will permit the majority to see the professionals play their type of ball for the first time.

Both Coaches Earl "Dutch" Clark of the Rams and Walter Kiesling of the Steelers have notified the Civilian Defense committees that their squads will be in top season form physically as most of the men reported in shape to stand grueling practice sessions from the start of training ten days ago.

The local coloring to the classic will be furnished by George Morris of East Palestine and John Wilson of Steubenville, both first stringers of the Rams.

Morris, a graduate of East Palestine, was an outstanding star at Baldwin-Wallace and in 1939 was the state's high scoring back with 100 points. This is his second year with the Rams. He is married and has one child. Morris has enlisted in the Marine officers candidate school and will be called into the service about Dec. 1.

Wilson, a Western Reserve end, has been with the Rams four years. It was he who in '37 intercepted a pass and ran for the only touchdown in the annual Case game. He also was an all Ohio end in '38.

HARDER INJURED AS BROWNS TOP TRIBE

Cleveland Club Protests Decisions; Judnich Hits Homer

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—Cleveland's slumping Indians got a rest today and too much time to reflect on the batting woes that left them only one and half games ahead of the fourth-place St. Louis Browns.

It was the tough Browns who slashed the Tribe's third-place lead with a 5 to 2 victory last night.

Johnny Niggling held the Tribe to seven hits and batted in the run breaking a 2-all tie in last night's contest, marked by the injury of Mel Harder.

Hit on the ankle by a smash from Don Gutteridge's bat in the sixth, Harder left the game at the end of the inning.

Judnich's circuit smash brought the loudest protest to the umpires, the Indians claiming it was a foul.

Cleveland opened the scoring in the first on a pass to Ken Keltner, who took third on Jeff Heath's single and scored on a passed ball.

Successful singles by Judnich, Vern Stephens and George McQuinn tied it up in the second.

Tribe Goes Ahead

The Tribe went ahead in the third as Oris Hockett doubled and after Troy Weatherly was retired, crossed the plate on Keltner's single. And again the Browns knotted it in the fourth with a run the Indians protested.

Stephens walked and, after one out, took third on Mike Chartak's single. Rick Ferrell bunted to Fleming, who fumbled momentarily and then threw to Gene Resautels.

Stephens crossed the plate standing up and sprawled when he collided with Desautels' shoulder. The Browns' shortstop was declared safe over Cleveland protests that he was more than five feet from the plate when Desautels de-toured him.

Another St. Louis run in the eighth broke the tie and Judnich's homer following Harland Clift's single clinched the game.

OCTOBER CLASSIC SEEN AS 'GRUDGE' BATTLE THIS YEAR

Rivalry Flames Anew As Yank. Dodger Front Offices Scrap

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

If the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers don't meet in the World series this fall, they'll waste a grudge that would be worth more at the box office than all the 300 hitters on both clubs.

Born in the post-season classic last October but lost amid the pennant squabbles of the current campaign, the illfeeling has come out of retirement and shows signs of snowballing into quite a fuss.

The sudden reappearance can be traced directly to both teams' front offices, the occupants of which know how many customers a good grudge battle can pull through the gates.

It all came about when the Yankees discovered that their army-navy relief doubleheader with the Washington Senators at the stadium Sunday would have the toughest kind of competition at Ebbets field.

When the Dodgers refused to strike one of their games off the day's calendar, Yankee officials were angered as well as embarrassed. Now the Yankee players are recalling the happenings of last October.

Among other things, they remember those close pitches so the feud is on again.

BRAZILIAN SHIP'S START IS DELAYED

Public Feeling Flares At Axis Sinking of Five
Vessels

(By Associated Press)
RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 18.—The Brazilian diplomat exchange steamers Bage and Cuyaba remained in port today, the start of their voyage to Europe with Axis diplomats delayed, while public feeling flared into open demonstration on resentment at the sinking of five Brazilian ships by Axis submarines in the past three days.

Strongly worded editorials in the Brazilian press fanned anti-Axis sentiment, and cases of attacks on German property by enraged Brazilians were reported.

The Journal said the delay in departure of the diplomat exchange ships definitely was connected with the sinkings.

"We have been patient in excess," the newspaper declared.

The count of the missing from the five ships, one of them a troop transport, was still incomplete.

The government, bitterly criticizing the Axis for "disregard of the most elemental concept of human rights," promised that the attacks on Brazilian property and lives would not go unpunished.

Lifeboats Arrive
Lifeboats containing many survivors from the five ships have arrived at coastal points, it was announced, but the loss of life is generally expected to be high. The ships lost were the 4,801-ton Bapendy, the 1,905-ton Annibal Benevolo, the 4,872-ton Araraquara, the 1,675-ton Arara and the 2,109-ton Itagiba.

An official Brazilian announcement said the Bapendy was carrying an army unit "with reduced number of forces," but added that "rumors dispersed about high military losses have not the slightest foundation."

The announcement apparently referred to the first word on the sinking, quoting the Brazilian embassy at Montevideo as announcing the loss of the Bapendy with 500 or 800 troops.

The Brazilian department of press and propaganda said in a statement "the population should remain calm and confident in the assurance that crimes practiced against the lives and goods of Brazilians will not go unpunished."

The attacks occurred between Bahia and the state of Sergipe a few miles off the coast below the eastern bulge of Brazil.

DUBOIS, Idaho.—To help residents pay federal war taxes, Harry Harn, city treasurer, announced there will be no town tax levy this year. The council passed a resolution requesting taxpayers to use money ordinarily needed for town taxes for purchase of war bonds and stamps.

SEEKS SUSPENSION OF DANCE PERMITS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—A resolution asking suspension of dance permits in Columbus liquor and beer establishments for the duration of the war soon will be submitted to the city council.

It was prepared last night in line with a request from Col. O. M. Baldinger, commander of the Lockbourne air base, who asserted he was fighting a "combination of women, liquor and dancing" to maintain "without interference" a program of training glider pilots.

The resolution was reported to have supplanted a former resolution proposing that all permits be suspended.

Baldinger, speaking before the Buckeye Liquor Dealers' association, said last night the men under his command could not do their jobs properly if they kept late hours or indulged in drinking bouts at "some of the downtown spots."

The colonel recently submitted a list of 69 places, recommending that their permits be revoked. A civil authorities committee has referred the list to the state board of liquor control, which set hearings for 21 of them Thursday and Friday.

"The manner in which the citizens of Columbus conduct their city," Baldinger said, "the manner in which the citizens of Ohio conduct their state is no affair of mine. My work is training for war. But if conditions in Columbus or in the state of Ohio interfere with my training program, then as an officer of the army I am duty-bound to see what can be done to change those conditions."

Atlantic since Pearl Harbor is now 434.

The loss of life from the Brazilian sinkings was still unknown and although lifeboats were bringing survivors to coastal points below the bulge of Brazil where the attacks took place, unofficial estimates were that losses would be high.

Two Brazilian diplomatic exchange ships were kept in port as feeling in Brazil flared into open demonstrations against the Axis.

Dublin reported the rescue of 18 survivors of the crew of 69 of a British freighter torpedoed by an Italian submarine 750 miles off Newfoundland.

"Since this ship was torpedoed in mid-Atlantic it was not included in the Associated Press total of Western Atlantic sinkings."

They're Cute Now, but Wait

Gerrie Noonan shows us the three baby alligators recently born at the Los Angeles alligator farm. While these little 'gators are cute now, an idea of their future appearance may be judged by the fact that each of them already is the possessor of 80 teeth. The granddad of these babies is reputed to be 500 years old.

Theatre Attractions

The new comedy hit, "Joan of Ozark," which opens at the State theater Wednesday for a two-day showing, starring Judy Canova and Joe E. Brown, details the adventures of Judy Canova, when she becomes a national heroine after exposing a Nazi spy ring in which Joe E. Brown masquerades as Hitler.

Latest of the outstanding novels of today is brought to the screen by Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon in "Mrs. Miniver," showing at the State theater Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. They portray the kind of people in England with courage and determination that no power on earth can down.

"Pardon My Sarong," with Abbott and Costello, is showing at the State for the last times tonight. The story is about two bus drivers who take a bus load of chorus girls to Los Angeles.

Tonight and Wednesday a double feature, "The Falcon Takes Over" and "Mexican Spitfire Eats a Ghost," is scheduled for the Grand theater.

"North of the Rockies," with Bill Elliott and Tex Ritter, will be at the Grand theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

WHITE HOUSE GETS DEPENDENCY PLAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Legislation to permit immediate payment of living allowances to dependents of service men awaited White House consideration today.

The senate approved the house measure yesterday but postponed action until Thursday on another bill to permit members of the armed forces within the continental United States to cast absentee ballots for federal offices.

The dependency measure eliminated a provision which would have prevented any payments until Nov. 1.

The allotment law, effective June 1, allows a private, first class private, corporal and line sergeant in the army and their counterparts in the other armed services to allot $22 monthly to a wife with the government adding $23. Funds also are provided for support of children and other dependents.

OGDEN, Utah.—Several hundred skunks have been put to death near here. These were the "woods pussy" variety with the white stripe down their backs. They had managed to get a head-start in the Ogden bird refuge area and had been destroying eggs and the young ducks and geese on the refuge. Authorization was given to poison them and the egg and bird damage has shown a marked decline.

The Netherlands comprises an area of 13,600 square miles.

Fighting Japs and Weather in Alaska

Flurries of snow almost obscure this PBY naval patrol bomber and a sandbag pillbox at an Alaskan air base. Besides fighting the Japs our boys must fight Old Man Weather, and sudden storms like this one add to the handicaps of flying in the Alaska region.
